Privacy Statement

NB: This statement only applies to individuals.

By agreeing to this document you consent to both the:

- collection, use, holding and disclosure of your personal and credit-related information as set out in this document; and
- disclosure of your personal information to a credit reporting body or other organisation for the purposes of electronically verifying your identity as set out below.

Personal information includes any information which may identify you, such as your name, date of birth, address, the number and ages of your dependants, and employment information. If you use our website or mobile applications, we may collect information about your location or activity, including IP address, use of third-party sites, and other user information.

Credit-related information means both:

- Credit information, which is information which includes your identity; the type, terms and maximum amount of credit provided to you, including when that credit was provided and when it was repaid; repayment history information, default information (including overdue payments); payment information; new arrangement information; details of any serious credit infringements; court proceedings information; personal insolvency information and publicly available information; and
- Credit eligibility information, which is credit reporting information supplied to us by a credit reporting body, and any information that we derive from it.

We refer to personal information and credit-related information collectively as "information" in this document.

If you do not provide us with information we request, we may be unable to accept your request for our services.

We may disclose your information to third parties including credit reporting bodies (CRBs) in a form that may enable those third parties to identify you. If we obtain a credit report about you, that information may be recorded and may affect your credit standing.

If you have any concerns or queries about our privacy policy, or if you would like more information about the way we handle information, please contact our Privacy Officer at 1300 137 037 or mailbox@arteva.com.au.

How we handle your information

We collect personal details to process your application for a product or services, to market products and services by us and by third parties, to verify your identity by using information held by a credit reporting body (CRB) and using other on line resources, to perform associated tasks and to contact you. We also collect information relating to your financial position and credit status to decide whether to deal with you. We may also collect further information about you in the course of dealing with you.

We collect information directly from you, or through a broker, service provider, insurer or other intermediary. We may also collect information in the public domain, such as from social media or searches of property ownership or electoral rolls. We also collect information if we obtain a credit report about you from a CRB.

We collect information so we can process any request you make for our credit services, and to make decisions relating to providing and administering those services. We may also use your information for internal reports, research and planning, or for us or our related entities to offer you further services.

When we're checking your creditworthiness and at other times, we may also give information about you to CRBs. In that case, the CRB may give that information to other parties, including other lenders so they can assess your creditworthiness, so it may affect your ability to get credit.

Customer identification

We may also use information (and may request further information from you) as required of us by law, such as to carry out any identification check required under the Anti-Money Laundering & Counter-Terrorism Financing Act. In that case, we may disclose information such as your name, residential address and date of birth to an organisation, including a CRB, and ask it to prepare and provide us with an assessment of whether that matches (in whole or part) the information held by it. In doing so, the CRB may use information about yourself and others held by it, such as names, residential addresses and dates of birth and will give us an assessment/ report of whether or not the information we have matches information held by the organisation. If we use these methods and are unable to verify your identity in this way, we will let you know. We may also use information about your Australian Passport, state or territory driver licence, Medicare card, citizenship certificate, birth certificate and any other identification documents to match those details with the relevant registries using third party systems and to record the results of that matching.

Note: If you do not consent to us disclosing your information in this way, we will verify your identity in another way, which may involve requiring you to provide various supporting identification documents (either original or certified copies).

Security of information

We take all reasonable steps to protect the information we hold from wrongful use or disclosure. Only authorised staff or representatives can access information, and they are bound by duties of confidentiality.

Exchange of information with CRBs

We may give information about you to, and receive information about you from, CRBs, including information about your credit worthiness. CRBs may include information about you and this application in reports provided to other lenders to assist them to assess your credit worthiness. We may inform CRBs if you default, fail to meet your repayment obligations or commit a serious credit infringement. You can ask a CRB not to use a credit report about you for the purposes of pre-screening or direct marketing. You can also ask a CRB not to use or disclose credit reporting information about you if you have reasonable grounds to believe that you've been, or are likely to be, a victim of fraud.
